Foreword

From Hon. Minister for Kampala Capital City Authority

The Agricultural Sector continues to be the most important sector in Uganda; it employs approximately 72% of the population and represents about 32% of the GDP. Agriculture production is majorly in the rural areas however with the increasing urbanization rate, food production in and around the cities has now become an integral part of the Agricultural production system.

Food security in Kampala remains a challenge with a disproportionate share of expenditure of income of the urban poor going on food. In urban centers like Kampala, low income earners spend between 40 to 60 percent of their income on food and it requires at least at least 3000 tonnes of food per day to feed a city the size of Kampala. Food security in urban areas is closely tied to food prices, which are sensitive to price fluctuations of fuel and natural events such as droughts which are induced by climate change at local and global levels.

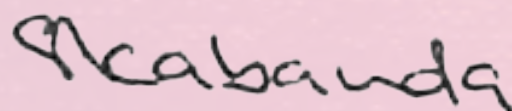

Urban and Peri-Urban farming has a potential to address challenges related to food insecurity among city and town dwellers. It provides the urban population with food, nutrition and a source of income and employment, thus reducing on poverty and food scarcity. It has the advantage of proximity to urban markets which saves on transportation costs, thereby increasing farmers' profitability.

The Kampala Agribusiness Directory initiative is aligned with the aspirations of NDP VIII which are commercialization of Agriculture to increase production and productivity along the value chains through Agro processing and marketing.

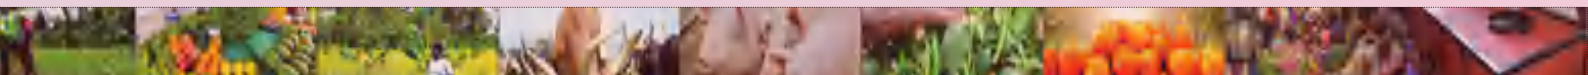

The Directory provides information that bridges the gap between urban farmers and actors involved in the Agri-business value chain (Suppliers and service providers) and Agricultural supporting institutions resulting in the development of Urban Farming sector and improving of value-addition.

I would like to commend the KCCA team that developed this directory and all actors who willingly provided contact information to ease service delivery in the city.

Hon. Hajjati Minsa Kabanda

Honorable Minister for Kampala
Capital City and Metropolitan Affairs

Word from

His Worship, The Lord Mayor - Kampala Capital City Authority

Kampala Capital City Authority is cognizant of the fact that food security is an important aspect of urban planning and management. That is precisely the reason why, in 2003, the Council passed a series of ordinances including the Urban Agriculture Ordinance, 2006 that provides for the licensing, control and regulation of Urban Agriculture in Kampala City, the Milk Ordinance, 2006 that provides for control and regulation of the sale of milk and milk products, the Meat Ordinance 2006 that provides for the licensing, control and regulation of slaughterhouses and butcher's shops, the Livestock and Companion Animals Ordinance, 2006 that provides for the control, regulation, registration and licensing of the keeping of livestock and companion animals and the Fish Ordinance 2006 that provides for the licensing, control and regulation of the farming, capture, handling, processing and selling of fish in Kampala City. The ordinances aim at legalizing, regulating and supporting the critical role Urban Agriculture plays in the supply of food and generation of income for city residents especially the poor.

Approximately 75% of the population in the city particularly women and youth rely on the informal employment sector to provide for the basic needs of their households. However, this mode of livelihood is very unstable and therefore these households are susceptible to food insecurity and lack the basics for survival. The majority are slum dwellers living in small spaces with very poor living conditions and limited alternative sources of income. There are enormous opportunities in the food industry which regrettably, remain largely untapped. It is therefore imperative that these vulnerable communities of urban dwellers be guided and be equipped with the necessary information and tools to exploit this opportunity through Urban Farming.

This Directory offers a starting point, by providing a source of information on suppliers and service providers in the Agricultural sector. This also creates a network upon which farmers can rely on for the growth of their enterprises. This information, too, is crucial to not only the urban farmers but also other city residents desirous of venturing into Agricultural enterprises.

Erias Lukwago

His Worship the Lord Mayor, Kampala Capital City Authority

Word from

The Executive Director - Kampala Capital City Authority

As we champion the KCCA Smart City Agenda, we are pleased to introduce to you the Online Agribusiness Directory for Kampala City.

The purpose of the directory is to provide a channel for information and sourcing of products, services and equipment in the Agricultural industry in Kampala. It also provides a platform for stakeholders in the Agriculture sector in Kampala city to promote their products and services to buyers locally and regionally.

Furthermore, the directory has been laid in a way that makes it easy to find contacts of particular enterprises in the Agriculture sector.

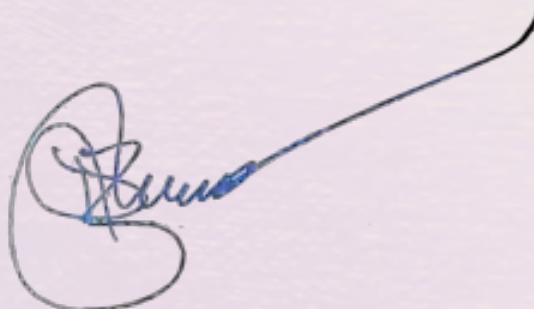

The contacts have been categorized by value chain and location per division.

I wish to extend my appreciation to all the actors who willingly provided the production team with contact details of their enterprises.

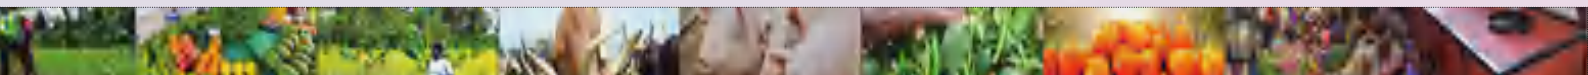

We hope all stakeholders will find this publication a useful resource in advancing the Agribusiness sector in Uganda and the region at large.

KCCA looks forward to continuous partnership with Agribusiness sector.

Dorothy Kisaka

NAAC FULFILLS ITS MANDATE THROUGH SIX KEY THEMATIC AREAS;

1. Policy advocacy and Representation
2. Agribusiness and Market System Development
3. Research and Innovation
4. Demand-driven membership and Co-operative promotion services
5. Inclusive Green Co-operative Movement
6. Fostering Healthy and Mutual-Benefitting Relationships

- NAAC as an Umbrella Organization is using a multi-faceted approach to facilitate smallholder farmers to actively engage in agri-market systems
- NAAC has also taken on a role of agricultural market systems coordinator, bringing all actors to understand the needs of agricultural cooperatives, to coordinate efforts and support SHF members to earn a living wage as a minimum for wider household economic empowerment
- NAAC is also positioned as a prime BDS provider to ensure agricultural cooperatives and all FDIs access professional Technical Assistance required for them to act as able platforms for farmers to take part in agricultural markets.

The eCitie programme has been introduced to allow tax payers to declare their due online and to offer them a variety of payment options, including Mobile Money.

The programme has already yielded interesting results in efficiency and revenue increase. Since its institution in 2011, the Kampala Capital City Authority (KCCA) has been leading important reforms in how revenue is collected and managed. Among other elements, the use of Information Communication Technologies has played an important role in facilitating taxes and fees payments and administration.
